1. Business Identification Number (BIN)
2. Ontario Corporation Number (OCN)

Either one will do. Get them for the 2003 incorporation of Dominion Voting Systems Corporation or watch your country burn to the ground like some shitty insurance scam.

If I don't have those numbers by the time this thread is archived, I'm reporting all of you to the Department of Minecraft Security for crimes against the state. Get off your ass scum and get me those god damned numbers.

The problem is they all use registered agents like Cogency Global or CT Corp to represent them on these filings. Makes useful information sparse. The interesting is from Quebec. Go here - https://www.registreentreprises.gouv.qc.ca/RQAnonymeGR/GR/GR03/GR03A2_19A_PIU_RechEnt_PC/PageRechSimple.aspx?T1.CodeService=S00436&CIng=F&WT.co_f=2de29b0a1ccdd87efbe1606247818161 the easiest way to start digging would be to use google dorks for document archiving.

For example:

>"dominion" "voting" ".pdf"

with quotations will pull all .pdf ending url's crawled by google that contain the word "dominion" and "voting". can also do "vote" instead of "voting", "smartmatic" or "segoia" in exchange for "dominion"

Whenever you find a relevant PDF you think needs to be archived save a copy locally (download it) then go to archive.org and archive the URL there.

>ARCHIVE.ORG ALLOWS YOU TO ARCHIVE THE PDF DOWNLOAD SO IT CAN BE ACCESSED LATER

>ARCHIVE.IS IS FOR ARTICLES, AND STATIC CONTENT - MUCH LESS LIKELY TO GET COPYRIGHT STRIKED DOWN BUT CANT SAVE DOWNLOAD FILES

You can also take this a step further to include

"dominion" "_insert swing state here_" "pdf" to get relevant content for a specific county or state.

If you are more interested in learning about the ways the companies interact (IMO equally important if not even moreso) read the articles in the OP -> then use google dorks to search for connections between the companies and those listed as affiliated

for example

>"Michael Duke" "Carlyle Group"

>"Michael Duke" "Dominion"

>"Walmart" "dominion" "voting"

>"Carlyle Group" "Voting"

michael duke is shown in the OP post as being the CEO of walmart, if we can find articles that reinforce his relationship to the company (maybe learn how he joined, what he does for the organization, etc etc) then anon's like myself or others can start building charts to display the connections between the various entities

Another example here that's HUGE is the Mubadala Development Company. This is a UAE State-Funded Energy Organization and Global Equity Fund.

>"Mubadala" "Dominion" "voting"

>"Mubadala" "dominion" "pdf"

>"Mubadala" "smartmatic"

>"Mubadala Development" "dominion"

>"united arab emirates" "dominion"

>"united arab emirates" "smartmatic"

>"Mubadala" "Michael Duke" ;)
